

Our most current version of Smart Auto Shop uses an Enterprise-Level database that will allow you to connect to your data from other computers on your office network and possibly from remote locations as well. This will enable increased efficiency of your employees as they will be able to run your business software from practically anywhere.

This is commonly referred to as Client-Server computing. In this case, the Server is the computer that will host your database, while the Clients are the computers that your employees will run the software from. The server does not need to be a special computer. It can be any computer that will run our software. All program features are available from all locations (Office, Mobile, work while on the road, etc).

BBT Business Software in an Office Network

BBT Business Software in a mixed environment

For additional information on networking your computers, please contact the sales department: sales@bbtsoft.com